Hills' Homes receive a royal seal of approval

Local housing developer Hills Homes has received the 'royal seal of approval' for its rural housing development in Bibury, Gloucestershire.

The Arlington Fields development, built on behalf of Cirencester Housing Association, was opened by HRH The Princess Royal earlier this month and consists of 11 new homes.

Nick King, Group director – Homes said: "We are delighted to have welcomed HRH the Princess Royal to Arlington Fields. It is great to see that the quality of our work, which we pride ourselves on, has been recognised and it is a real testament to all those involved in the development of Arlington Fields.

Her Royal Highness was given a tour of the new homes and introduced to the teams responsible for delivering the project.

Other attendees included representatives from Peter Kent architects who worked with Hills Homes on the development. ENDS
